Upstate Forever Announces the Protection of Cherokee Farms

Anderson County Farmland Preserved by Rainey Family

(Greenville, SC) – Upstate Forever has partnered with John S. and Robert M. Rainey to protect Cherokee Farms, a 182-acre parcel of land in Belton. The beautiful Anderson County property is primarily composed of pastures and hay fields. It also includes a riparian buffer of hardwood forest around tributaries to Cherokee Creek and three small ponds, providing habitat for wildlife. The Rainey family plan to protect additional acreage in the future.

The tract is now permanently protected by a conservation agreement. A voluntary contract between a landowner and a qualified land trust, a conservation agreement retains private ownership for the landowner, who relinquishes some or all of the rights to develop a property. Upstate Forever's Land Trust program now holds conservation agreements on 81 properties, protecting a total of 15,799 acres in the Upstate region.
