

Greenville News 1/26/12

Land gets protection

Upstate Forever has partnered with landowners Don and Kay McClure to protect Pauline Creek Farms, a 241-acre parcel in Pauline. The tract is primarily forested, but also includes open fields, wildlife food plots, trails, and a garden. Pauline Creek, a tributary to Fairforest Creek, flows through the property. The tract is now permanently protected by a conservation agreement. Upstate Forever's Land Trust Program now partners with the owners of 84 properties across the Upstate region to protect a total of 16,282 acres through conservation agreements.