Protecting the Upstates wild places and having a wild time seem like polar opposites.

But on Nov. 3, you can do both.

A benefit for Upstate Forever and sister land trusts in the Upstate features legendary rocker Chuck Leavell during a 7 p.m. concert at Greenvilles Centre Stage.

Leavell has been a member of the Allman Brothers Band, the Fabulous Thunderbirds and keyboarder for the Rolling Stones for 25 years. He recently finished touring with the Rolling Stones Bigger Bang Tour in Europe.

Advertisement      And now he's visiting Greenville for a night. General admission is $100 with a limited number of VIP tickets for $250; 50 percent of ticket value is tax deductible.

VIP packages include a front row seat, and a pass to attend a private reception with Chuck, an autographed copy of his book Between Rock and a Home Place and a CD. Tickets went on sale Monday.

This evening is made possible by the U.S. Endowment for Forestry & Communities and sponsored by Wal-Mart and Brett Communications. Gifts by the Greenville Community Foundation and The Conservation Fund, and special media sponsor, LiNK, ensure all ticket sales benefit land conservation in the Upstate.

The following groups will benefit from this show: Conestee Foundation, Friends of the Reedy River, Naturaland Trust, Spartanburg Area Conservancy and Upstate Forever.
