

Upstate Forever is opposing developer Jim Anthony's permit application to DHEC for his Cliffs at Mountain Park development golf course on the North Saluda River.

The organization has urged the state to deny certification or, alternatively, address the deficiencies they find in Anthony's plans for the golf course.

There are 15 points raised in Upstate Forever's opposition to the plan for an 18-hole golf course on both banks of the river. Most of those objections center on the > > riparian buffer around the stream; but the environmental group also takes issue with access plans, bridges and mitigation proposals, and demands that another public hearing be held on the golf course permit issue.
