

The Carrboro Citizen, Carrboro, NC

October 16, 2008

Farm conference

From Oct. 31 to Nov. 2, the Carolina Farm Stewardship Association will host its 23rd Annual Sustainable Agriculture Conference, entitled "Strong Communities, Sustainable Food" in Anderson, SC.

The three-day regional conference will feature tours of upstate-area sustainable farms, a day-long organic certification class, a youth program and over 60 workshops on topics from organic crop production, humane livestock management and unique farming techniques to nutrition, seasonal cooking and grassroots organizing.

Meals are prepared using the best local ingredients. The event is for anyone involved or interested in sustainable farming, gardening and/or living. Keynote speakers include Joel Salatin of Polyface Farm and Brad Wyche of Upstate Forever. See www.carolinafarmstewards.org/sac08/index.html or call 542-2402 for details.